Dear Mr. Stacey,

My husband, Peter, and I are members of the National Sierra Club and the local Connecticut Chapter, and we are writing you in strong support of the new streamflow regulations as they are currently written, except for the following request. We understand that Class 4 streams, degraded by years of diversions, may not be kept alive by the current streamflow regulations. We believe all streams in the state should be protected from drying up. Please eliminate the Class 4 category or change the regulations so every stream in the state will have a strong level of protection.

We think the streams in Connecticut should be protected not only for this generation but for all generations of people and animals in the future.

Thank you for your kind consideration of our ideas.
